Semi-auto production line

SMT production line include loader, stencil printer, conveyor, pick and place machine, reflow oven, etc. And the biggest difference between automatic production line and semi-auto production line is the labor of cost and the cost. During the process of producing, semi-auto may need more operator to operate the whole line, even though the cost will be less. But the automatic production line just need one operator can master the whole line, the cost will be higher, but I think it can increase the production efficiency.
